Office Of The Governor

WHEREAS, The early settlements of Lebanon, South Dakota, go back to 1883, when Andrew Edmunds and Knud Colby staked their claims on the unsurveyed land that is now Potter County; and,

WHEREAS, Lebanon was named by the town's first postmaster, David Boyle, who successfully petitioned to name the community after his home town of Lebanon, Indiana; and,

WHEREAS, The first school was a two-story wooden building built in 1889 that housed eight grades and a two-year high school. The first teacher was E. C. Scovel; and,

WHEREAS, By the early 1900's, Lebanon was a bustling boom town with five elevators (more than any other town along the C&NW line) and a large traffic in cattle and sheep. WHEREAS, Today, Lebanon is still the friendly little community it was so many years ago. The community pride in towns like Lebanon contributes greatly to the high quality of life in South Dakota; and,

WHEREAS, This summer, Lebanon is celebrating its first one hundred years with memorable festivities and commemorations:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. JANKLOW, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim June 15, 16, and 17, 1984, as
